picture to Tami. He still remembers you and always asks about you. But there is a danger that he will grow to forget who is Malume Dumile.

Please let me know how things are getting on and if I can still send any paintings over there, if I can make it within the next three or four months. Also, if you can, send some photos of your gallery and recent work.

You know, writing has been a great relief. Hope you enjoy yourself in your studio.

Tana and the children pass their regards.

So long,
Louis
